

FLOATING FUTURES. Closing the work day the participants were invited by Futures Mind Tours to participate in a ritual, in which they were first asked to write their personal future mission onto a small paper boat. Guided by the song of the agents of the travel agency/büro reisende, we all walked in a procession down to the canal, where their journey of In-100Years started the day before. Each of their individual mission were forming a floating ensemble of futures.
